* Since cyberspace is the 5th US pillar of military warfare, it is quite a common tactic used by individuals, international groups and nations all around the globe.

A recent example of Cyber Civil Resistance are the activities of activists group Anonymous Africa. During the 2013 Zimbabwean election, it attacked and closed down 50 websites, including those associated with the ruling Zanu PF party as well as those of the regime newspaper The Herald.

ATTACK WITH CYBER CIVIL RESISTANCE, WEAPONS:

- DESTROY DATA OR EXECUTABLE CODE (PROGRAMS) ON THE SYSTEM.

- DESTROY COMPUTER HARDWARE.
- DISRUPT AS MANY WEBSITES AS POSSIBLE AND MAKING COMMERCIAL AND MILITARY OPERATIONS AS DIFFICULT AS POSSIBLE
- CARRY OUT RELATIVELY UNSOPHISTICATED "DENIAL OF SERVICE" ATTACKS, DIRECTING SO MUCH COMPUTER TRAFFIC AT A WEBSITE THAT IT IS OVERLOADED AND SHUTS DOWN.
- PENETRATE DOMAIN NAME SYSTEM, THE DIRECTORY THAT TRANSLATES DOMAIN NAMES INTO NUMERICAL INTERNET ADDRESSES, WITH THE POSSIBILITY TO GO VARIOUS TARGETS AND CAUSE MORE DAMAGE.
- ATTACK CRITICAL INFRASTRUCTURES OF THE REGIME INCLUDING THE MILITARY POWER GRID OR CONVOY TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM.
